Synopsis

With playful text, and beautiful close-up photography that features baby animals in their natural habitats, this series is an accessible introduction to a wide range of animals and ecosystems. The forest is full of baby wildlife from the spotted faun, to the tiny bunnies, the tinier mouse, and the black bear cub up the tree. ## Customer Reviews

Kingfisher Editors

The book has nice real photos of baby forest animals. There is text on the left hand page next to each animal. Some of the words in the text take the shape of what it means. For example, the word hopping will be written with the letters up and down so it looks like they letters are hopping/bouncing. I think the book would be good for one year olds but not for very early readers because of the tricky shapes to words. The amount of writing per page was a bit much for my 10 month old page turner who just touches each animal's nose. I also wish the book had included some other animals besides mammals. A few extra pages to show a woodpecker and a butterfly would have made a better rounded book.

Darling book very appropriate for 18 month old

This book is absolutely darling, and the perfect way to introduce babies, toddlers, or beginning readers to wildlife. Another delightful book in the Baby Animals series,

Cute book!
