Kids love this nonfiction series. It has great photographs and kids have to answer a true or false question about each animal. Then they have to turn the page to find out the correct answer and see if they were right or wrong. Either way it's a win win because they learn some pretty interesting facts!

Depending on the age of the children I felt this book was a little gruesome for my grand daughters ages 6 and 3. They were a little horrified when I accidentally read a part where one animal ate another. Older kids may enjoy it.

The whole family learned a lot from this book. The kids enjoyed quizzing each other and their friends. The format is easy and appealing.

I am not going to waste my time on reviews and will only give a star rating.
