Evelyn Waugh was born in 1903 and was educated at Hertford College, Oxford. In 1928, he published his first novel, Decline and Fall, which was soon followed by Vile Bodies, Black Mischief, A Handful of Dust, and Scoop. In 1945, he published Brideshead Revisited, and he won the James Tait Black Memorial Prize in 1952 for Men at Arms. He died in 1966.

This book is a delight. Included are the complete stories authored by Evelyn Waugh (1903-1966) who graduated with a third in History from Oxford; fought in World War II, was widely traveled and ended up as a conservative country squire in the country. Waugh's stories deal with the uppercrust of British Society. His best stories are set in pre-World War II days. This book includes several tales from his childhood, student days at Oxford with the last story included being published in 1962. Characters recur in the stories such as Charles Ryder, Basil Seal, and others. The tales are humorous and often ironic. Nothing heavy here just good light reading in the English tradition of humor. A good look at the lost world of Brideshead Revisited which is Waugh most famous novel dealing with a rich Roman Catholic family. Stories deal with romance; some are mysteries and many have ironical endings. Enjoy!
