Customer Reviews

In my 40's I lost my dear wife who was my dearest treasure since I was 16. She meant everything to me and I love her so much. Ever since her passing I have not cared about my own life. I became indifferent to anything positive or negative happening with me because I feel like I died with her. Growing up in a devout Christian family and going to Catholic schools throughout childhood my family believed my faith would save me, but it did not. I always needed more than just faith because I am too analytical and need to understand how everything works. I must understand why and yearning to just know consumes me until I can make sense of it all. This book doesn't take away my grief but it has helped me come around to the believable possibility that she is not lost forever to me. The book gives evidence that is tangible and has opened my mind to trusting that just because I can't see something doesn't mean it's not there. It turns out I do have faith and this book gives it to me in the way my mind can understand it in a way that has been the most meaningful of any book I have read before.

If you resonate with the following questions then this is a must read... Why am I here? Is there a deeper purpose to my life? Why do I feel a sense of disconnection from myself and others? What is this emptiness I feel inside? Will I ever be happy? Will there ever be peace in this crazy world? Are we alone in the universe? What really happens after I die? What's the point of it all? As an Engineer I'm heavy on science but not so much spirituality. Mr. Masri has brought it all together in this creation and has helped answer many of those questions for me. I can't even begin to fathom how much time of research went into this book as he has shared an immense amount of knowledge, evidence, and wisdom with us. The practical applications he offers are icing on the cake! Well done!

Five years ago, I was a hardcore atheist. I had a decent understanding of psychics, biology, and chemistry. I thought I knew it all. BUT a single question always lingered in my mind: How do our cells and each part of the cell "know what to do?" I kept picturing my body, every human body, really just a composition of trillions of cells (and thus, atoms, subatomic particles, etc), each working around the clock to keep us alive. Biology and chemistry explained how, but I asked how do they "know" what to do? I always resorted to consciousness as the explanation, each cell must have some kind of intelligence or conscious awareness. Shortly after I concluded that, a health crisis shocked me to the core, so much that for the first time in years that I actually thought about God. I was 22 years old and I never thought anything like that would happen to me. So I asked God, "Why me?" But I didn't feel right asking that nor did I feel I was being listened to. What really pushed me over the edge into the metaphysical world was when my lover left me. I was beyond devastated, inconsolable. I don't know why but somehow I found myself calling psychic after psychic, asking them if he would come back. I started reading books about how psychics worked, and much to my surprise, the energy stuff made sense intuitively. These books mentioned other metaphysical concepts and I soon immersed myself in all things metaphysical. Today, 5 years later, I have transformed completely as person. The reason that I have chosen to devote myself to living a spiritual life is because spirituality and science do not contradict. My scientific background/ mind helped me understand and embrace spirituality concepts so much more. To those people that wonder how it can all be true, it is true because everything in the entire Universe is simply energy. Science and spirituality go hand in hand. Einstein knew it, Tesla knew it, and so many others did and do. What I would like to say to scientists and atheists alike, and anyone wondering about the existence of God, I really do believe that whatever God is, it is real and we are a part of that God but this God is not the one most of the world thinks about. Thank you Masri for writing this book, which is a perfect culmination of everything I've thought about for the last couple of years. It is as if you were in my head because this is exactly how I explain it to myself and to others. Masri does a fantastic job at combining prominent spiritual literature and scientific evidence. Although I pieced all of this together myself from everything I've read, its nice to see it all together. Folks, do not close yourself off if you think that if it's not measurable or provable by science it cannot be true. We are so limited in our capacity to understand or to see everything around us. As Masri describes, we are like computers that can only process a small amount of energetic information. We cannot even see or hear or experience the majority of what is "around" us. I hope that by reading this, many people can finally begin to understand the true nature of our reality and empower themselves because that is what it's really about.

Reality Unveiled took me to an amazing journey of discovery where the unknown became clear in a most logical and educational way. This physical experiment of life and the mystery of the "after" is no longer a mystery to me, and no longer to be fearful of. Just finished reading the second time and found it just as educational as the first time.....will definitely read it again. Many thanks to the author for his effort to make the subject so that even I could understand it; for the first time I had some understanding of the Quantum theory.

This book will touch your spirit. It will make you think and make you come back into your soul's journey. I couldn't put it down.

Absolutely incredible would be the way to describe this book. Amount of research, time and effort that went into this work is astonishing. Not only author takes us on journey to discover breathtaking true reality, meaning of life and our place in Cosmos (all supported by shocking evidence), he also offers many awakening practises for our everyday lives. I couldn't stop reading once started and it definitely opened my eyes and changed my perspective to life as we know it. Reading and studying it second time and I'm sure will be coming back to it many times after. Thank You for such an incredible work!

This book is the answer to all the questions that I've longed to have answered since I was 7 years old. It is presented in a no nonsense format, no fluff, and is very easy to read and understand. I am so ever grateful to Mr. Masri for taking the time to reveal such important, pertinent information regarding the purpose and meaning of life. This book is the "missing piece" I've been searching for all my life. Thank you Mr. Masri, for your gift, towards helping me become more spiritual and enlightened.
