Grade 3-6-Another compendium of childhood diversions from this creative team. This time the collection is of travel games and songs. Geared toward older children, many of the selections demand quite a bit of verbal and intellectual prowess. Some of the games require props such as maps or pencil and paper or a small degree of advance preparation. Other games assume car travel, but there is a good variety available for other modes of transportation. Each game is clearly described in large print with numbered steps and has a black-and-white line drawing. Additionally, parents will be pleased to see that many of the games are not competitive in nature.
