excellent book, very handy, especially when you in preparing hotel finance spread sheet well done needed it for a class, good book, learned a lot

Brand new as it said in the description.

I use this book for my ACC 201 class and it has been great. I absolutely hate accounting but the book is well set up and has helped me a lot in my class.

The book is just so worn out and it appears to have been damaged severely on the inside. I may have just expected a bit more for the price, but at the same time there was no indication of its overall quality before I hit 'check-out'. To be honest, this was my first ever book rental, and I may look into other sources after this experience.

The book was BRAND NEW. I'd been worried that book would not be in good condition because of the shipping process; however, I was very satisfied when I received the book. It was still in shrink wrap!

This seller never shipped or contacted me about my item. All I would see is that it is "shipping soon".

I have been teaching all the chapters of this book for 9 months. There are many examples from hospitality industry and, in this sense, the book is indeed fine. It is mainly indented for students who would like to learn the "very basics" (in order to "pass the course") and apply them in practice. From a more academic point of view, the book suffers in many respects. It is rather wordy and poor in substance since there are no clear-cut definitions of the concepts used. Further, and this is very negative for me, there is no even the least reasoning or proof for any of the formulae used. Thus, in the best case, it encourages the logic of "apply the formula and interpret the results". Also, some accounting identities and formulae are written simply in an unacceptable way, from mathematics (and logic) point of view. There are some mistakes in the exercises and the formulation of many exercises, especially of the large ones, is unnecessarily complicated, sometimes the answers in the answer sheet are wrong and the presentation of solution is occasionally chaotic. Since no constructive arguments are developed for the building of the formulae, students are "forced" to apply formulae in a "mechanical" way . The result is that, even in the least modification of the problem under consideration, students try to find "the" formula to apply it. Of course, we cannot blame only the book for this since many students convey this "idea" from their years in school. The book simply follows this learning stance. Due to lack of a constructing reasoning, students do not learn to modify a formula or to built another one from first principles, according to the problem at hand. Hence, not a really constructive thinking is developed. I am looking for other, more substantial alternatives.
