Indestructibles Creep! Crawl!

Synopsis

Announcing a brand new idea in publishing books for babies: the completely durable, completely safe Indestructibles. Published on the same paper-like material used in shipping envelopes, Indestructibles are 100% baby-proof: chew-proof, drool-proof, and rip-proof. That's because Indestructibles not only will not tear or turn gummy with teething, but they are also completely washable. Indestructibles are also energetic, beautiful, and created just for baby. The printing material reproduces color artwork with uncommon depth, and with no residual inkiness; the artwork, paintings by Kaaren Pixton and reminiscent of Eric Carle, is happy, each page a simple, colorful image of an animal or bird or insect against a rich, textured background. The effect is 3D-like and completely visual. There are no words, making each perfect for parents and babies to look at together, with mom or dad telling the story. Three titles launch the series: Creep! Crawl! about animals that crawl, Flutter! Fly! about animals that fly, and Wiggle! March! about farm animals • books babies can really sink their teeth into.

Amy Pixton, a mother of triplets, created Indestructibles after bits of traditional board books found their way into her babies' mouths. Amy lives in Kansas City with her husband and their three children. Kaaren Pixton has been making art with children for many years. Kaaren's studio is at her home in West Linn where she lives with her husband, one dog, five chickens, goldfish in a pond and countless grandchildren romping in the gardens.

This is seriously the best thing ever. Finally a book my kid can't eat and is free to try her hardest to destroy. She loves looking at the colorful pictures and I name each of the bugs for her. I told a family member how much she loves the book, so she bought her 3 different titles for her 1st birthday and now we keep one in the diaper bag, one in the car, and two at home. I wish I had known about this before she ate through her entire collection of books.

These books are amazing. I bought them for my daycare babies because they are ruining the older kids books. They can be chewed on, pulled apart, and I wash them in the washing machine.

OK, these Tyvek books are awesome! As you know, babies don't want to read books and they don't even care a whole lot about the pictures. What they want to do is open it up and start chewing on it. This destroys normal books in under a minute and will eventually destroy board books, although it takes a bit more time for all that baby slobber to soak in. These books, however, can be slobbered on all you want. They can be pulled and won't rip. They can be chewed on forever (with gums... not sure how it would stand up to teeth) and in the end you have a book that looks a bit beat up, but is otherwise not damaged. I also like that you can stick it in the dishwasher if it needs to be cleaned for whatever reason. Finally, unlike a board book, it is light enough that baby can easily handle it without any trouble. Recommended to anyone with babies under 1. This book will still be in good enough shape to entertain your great grandchildren, provided nobody takes a pair of scissors to it or throws it away.

We purchased several of these for our nephew because he has a penchant for books but was still pretty destructive with them. His parents were a bit surprised that there were no words in the books. When we explained that you were supposed to make up your own story or just talk to your child about the pictures, they seemed hesitant but thought it would be a good idea. So far the books are holding up well. Great way to really get the young ones interested in books without them eating it.

I got one of these as a baby shower gift and had to buy one for two other friends' baby showers. These books truly are indestructible. My little guy loves the illustrations with the vivid colors. Being a former teacher, I love that these are wordless books for young children, but can also be used for older children to spark a conversation about meta cognition while reading. I also love that my little guy can put these in his mouth, spill things on them, and try to tear them and they are still in tact.

We have this and three other titles. Our son is now one year old, and has had these since he was seven months old. He loves them! He loves looking at the pictures, and though it is thankfully less and less, he still likes putting them in his mouth. He has crumpled them, drooled on them, chewed them, and probably tried to rip them to pieces, but so far there are no tears at all. They are a bit wrinkled after so much abuse, but that is not an issue for us. There are no words, so you can make up your own stories, or just name the animals - each page has enough detail other than the focus animal that it is easy to come up with stories. The pictures are beautiful too - not cheap looking at all.

Our favorite books! These indestructibles are pages of fun and bold colors. Just right for a busy and inquisitive under 1yr old who enjoys the made up stories or just to practice turning the pages themselves! We love the almost tyvek-like material. Cleans up wonderfully and while it shows some wrinkles after a bit of use, holds up extremely well to the sucking, biting, crunching and slobbering it endures while being read :)

My 3 year old twins are tough on our board books, chewing the corners, tearing the covers off, and ripping the pictures off of the pages like a sticker. I thought we'd give these a shot, I am very impressed! Even though the pages are thin, they cannot destroy them! My only criticism is that I wish there were words on the pages.
