Publishers Weekly (February 23, 2004; 0-439-55963-4) Holey Cheese! Imported from Italy, this snazzy series debut about a globetrotting mouse journalist spreads the cheesy puns nice and thick. On an average day, Geronimo Stilton edits The Rodent's Gazette, the newspaper of New Mouse City, capital of Mouse Island. But at the coaxing of his sister, Thea, and various relatives, Stilton sates his yen for adventure-and adventure writing-by embarking on various excursions and recording and illustrating his exploits in a diary that serves as source material for his books. Stilton, Thea, cousin Trap and nephew Benjamin board a ship in search of buried treasure on a secret deserted island. The trip is filled with peril and plenty of humor, though the treasure isn't what anyone expected. The book's lightning pace and its numerous chapters, as well as a full-color design that displays key words in color type and fun fonts, will hook kids in a flash. And those with a taste for Stilton's breezy style will surely want to devour future "whisker-licking-good stories," as the author calls them. The first four book in the Geronimo Stilton series will be released simultaneously, followed by one book per month thereafter. Ages 7-10. (Feb.) Copyright 2004 Reed Business Information.

Bought it for my 8 year old...she loves the series...very well illustrated good reading for 3rd grader, good price and fast shipping.

What a delightful book. This book was purchased and donated to an elementary school here in Wichita, KS. Loved the story!

Just hope my grandson really reads it!

Fun story. My 4 year old granddaughter loves it!

My child is learning how to read (again). He is dyslexic. He enjoys hearing these stories and is learning to love the idea of being able to read by himself and comprehend the story. This book was very well read and the emphasis on certain parts was right on target! My child asks me everyday if I downloaded him another book!

Our grandson is in third grade and has read a couple of these books from the school library. So for Easter we ordered the first two in the series.
